Payment cards are being accepted at bars and most of the vendors. However, it's best to prepare with some cash for the sauna and festival purchases as well as to make the transactions quicker.

Entrance:

Entrance to the area is possible only once with a single ticket (no bracelets) on Saturday. If you exit the area during the festival day, you cannot make it back with the same ticket.

The gate ticket is priced 35 euros, which you can pay by card or cash. Holders of the advance ticket from Tiketti may go directly to the gate with their tickets. If you bought your advance ticket from the Holvi web shop, you will have to change it first to the actual ticket at the ticket sales / accreditation tent where we have a separate line for Holvi customers. You will see signs on site.

There will be a security check at the gate on both days where the audience will have to go through an inspection to prevent dangerous objects and alcohol drinks to be carried to the area. However, you are allowed to bring your own food and snacks as well as unopened and empty bottles along with you. SLR cameras are not allowed on the area without a media accreditation, since many of the artists have forbidden professional camera shooting unless it has been specifically agreed on.

There will be a cloak room next to the main gate, where you can leave big bags and backpacks. It is optional and costs 3 euros in cash. Umbrellas are not allowed but you can purchase a rain poncho from the cloak room as well as earplugs. This is also the place where the lost and found items will be collected.

The festival area is accessible by a wheelchair. One assistant per person is allowed for free. Toilets for disabled can be found next to the front doors of Funky Submarine as well as from the hallway of Wall of Sound at Ravintola Lämpö.

On Saturday you are expected to be able to prove that you're more than 18 years old with an ID. For Sunday there is no age limit.

Arrival by car:

There are parking places available both on the side of Kalasatama as well as on the big court of Suvilahti, which can be accessed by car from Sörnäisten rantatie. For the taxi, it's clearest to order it in front of the Kattilahalli, which is located next to Sörnäisten rantatie (address. Sörnäisten rantatie 22).
